Emperor William Takes Action and Will Punish Officers of Army Implicated In Affair—Strong Anti-British Feeling Prevalent In Germany Over Transvaal Matter.

(Copyright, 15%, by the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Oct. 7.—Public opinion has been much more deeply engrossed this week in following the proceedings of the international geographical congress and the sensational developments of gambling at the club Der Hamiosen than with the Transvaal situation, although South African affairs are being followed with keen solicitude by the government and political men.

The sensational trial of the club Der Hamiosen than with the Transvaal gituntion, although South African affairs are being followed with keen solicitude by the government and political men.

The sensational trial of the club Der Hamiosen has sittreed fashionable and sporting circles to the very depths. A peculiar feature of the Case is that same of the vitnesses belong to the consumage of Emperor William, Moreover, officers of garrisons all over the the empire and many who belong to the guard regiments are implicated, as well as experts on the correct way of playing baccarat, and men of the highest fashion. Didn't Want to Appear.

Didn't Want to Appear.

There was considerable difficulty in getting the experts to appear. One of the most noterious gambling houses in Berlin, when asked to furnish experts, replied that this was impossible, as its members were not allowed to gamble. Many important witnesses were absent. Some excured themselves on the ground that they had gone bear hunting in Norway or were about starting for Africa for a year or had sudden illness. Others, like Lieutenant von Schrader, committed suicide, or like Count von Stoch and Baron von Neimps, fied to the United States. Two prominent men of the club, Count Egloffstein and Count von Kusserow, are accused of defalcations.

Wolff, the founder of the club, has gone to parts unknown. It was proved that he had been convicted of theft and had served a term in prison, although most of the witnesses asserted that he was a man of excellent demeanor and perfect manners, wheave his nickname, "Corriterans" Wolff.

Confessed to Fleecing.

Count Flattan, although his evidence would have been of the most important character, was excused from tostifying. General von Kroech, father of one of the defendants, the commander of an army corps, and an intimate adviser of Emperor William, refused to appear. His son admitted that he had been guilty of fleecing.

In well informed army circles it is asserted that Emperor William not only wants the matter thoroughly sifted, but intends that the trial-shall be followed by an extensive weeding out of

ers. It is asserted that there are lof this stripe quartered in sixteen rrisons, who will come within the tegory of offenders.

The Geographical Congress.

Greely, though representing the l'hited States government, did not peessent a paper and took only an insignificant part in the transactions. Major H. T. Allen, military attachs of the United States embassy, who was an official delegate, was too busy in making his preparations to return home to devote himself to the business of the congress. Air Arthur C Jackson, the explorer, and Professar Boas of New York did not put in an appearance, which Mr. Marcus Baker only appeared at the last moment. Professor Davis of Harvard university was obliged to leave in the very midst of the proceedings. With the exception of the paper of Mrs. Zella Nyttall, which was presented in the choicest German, and that of Mr. Poultney Bigelow on "Colonial Administration," which contained some startling assertions, there was no striking American feature throughout the sitting.

Washington Lost the Congress. Washington Lost the Congress.

It is largely one to this that the next congress will not most in Washington, as Professor Bryant of Philadelphia proposed. His suggestion was not backed up with any vigor, nor by the requisite number of delegates. Among its supporters the Americans, baif of its supporters the Americans, half of whom were women, were quite lost. Several members criticised the fact that the United States did not present a report of the doings of the hydro-raphic office, especially regarding its unrivaled polar charts, which are the best of their kind in the world, and about which the congress had been anxious to hear. The expectation was that a detailed report on this subject would be a feature of the American share in the proceedings. The Americans, however, participated fully in the social attentions shown the congress.

An Anti-British Spirit.

An Anti-British Spirit.

Affairs in South Africa are still com-monited upon in the press and else-where here in the same anu-British spirit. Sympathy with the Boors is al-most everywhere expressed. The Kreun Zeltung, which represents the opinions of the court, the army and the conser-vatives, says:

HE MAY HAVE SOME TROUBLE th IN COLLECTING.

Promised $250,000 By the Venezuelan Government, Which May Soon Cease to Exist.

Times from Washington says: A suggestion was made today of the possibillty that a diplomatic officer of the proved to collect a lawyer's fee for an ex-president of the United States. The situation, it was admitted, would be unprecedented if it presented itself, but it is not thought likely that it will the Lord had so determined. This was one of his arguments in urging the people to more faithfully live up to the law of tithing. It required, he said, from $40,000 to $50,000 annually to support the poor and tens of thousands more to keep the 2,000 missionaries in the field. He told of his work and that of his associates in urging the observance of this great law while-on their trip through the south last apring, and read the following table, showing the improvement made in cash tithing collections since that trip was made, as compared with one year "50. In classing, the president said the time would come when the enemies of his people would cease their opposition and allow them to live in peace.

The fee involved, so it is reported, is $250,000 promised by the present Ventaruelan government to Benjamin Hartison for his services as legal counsel of the Venezuela republic before the Paris arbitration commission. It was suggested that in the event of the triumph of the insurrectionists in Venezuela now almost at the gates of the capital city. Caracas, the obligation of the preceding administration might be repudlated, hasmuch as the benefits decrived by Venezuela from the award are doubtful.

In this case, state department officials are of the opinion that the debt would be regarded as one of honor, partly on account of Mr. Harrison's high position as the former chief executive of a republic whose good offices were alone responsible for averting war and securing arbitration to Venezuela. The obligation is none the less binding, it is urged, because the question was only considered during Harrison's and won during Cleveland's administration.
